“ Carolyn and Frank, my sympathies in the passing of "Aunt 'Line". Sorry I can't be with you but my thoughts and prayers reach out to you. Funny how you remember things that happened many years ago. Jesse and Erline lived on Division Street just past the phone company. The lot sort of sloped toward the street. Aunt Erline got me on a bike and taught me how to ride by gliding down that front yard. Learning to ride a bike was one of the important rites of passage for a kid. I know I was thrilled in mastering this skill and I think she was thrilled to have taught me.

Sonny, Johnny, Alan, Bob and all Erline's loved ones~

Erline was like a second Mother to me as I was growing up.

She and Jesse were like another set of parents to me.

I will always treasure my childhood memories in Highland Park and those Bryan Foods days. Our fun times eating together, having fun boating together, cooking out together, helping me out with extra money when I needed it and always giving hugs when she knew something was wrong. Carolyn and I pretending we were sisters and tricking every new family that built a house or moved into the neighborhood by telling them we were sisters. Our Mothers told us that was rude to confuse the new neighbors like that.

We had fun riding bikes with our Moms until the day Erline got bit by a big dog in Meadowhill and we all said we would never go riding bikes in that neighborhood again. Ha! Then Jesse, Erline, Carolyn and Frankie moved over there in that neighborhood.

Erline took us on many visits out to her Mom & Dad's, Mr. & Mrs. Wray. I loved going to their house with her. Running through the pastures or chasing the goats. It was always fun to me to get to be at their house in the Country. Mrs. Wray always had sweet tea and something good to eat for us.

I hadn't seen Erline in about 6 or so years now. But I know that she always knew how much I loved her. John and I always tried to get by to check on her when we were in town but it seemed to get harder and harder as we got home less and less. Now with Mother living in a Nursing Home in Georgia and John's Mom passed away, we just don't get to West Point much at all.

Time has certainly flown by quickly just like our parents said it would.

I will miss knowing Erline is no longer with us here on Earth but

I find peace knowing that we will meet again in our Heavenly Home.

Our thoughts and prayers are with you at this sad time.

May God grant you peace and comfort in the days ahead.

Love and Sympathy~
